Description
A piece of the Cypriot countryside in Pera, this agricultural field covers 2342 m² of inclined ground in an open rural setting. Its irregular shape follows the natural lie of the land, and its agricultural zoning makes it land for farming or planting.

The neighbouring villages of Kampia, Analiontas and Kataliontas are a short drive from the area, and the wider district links to the Nicosia–Limassol motorway. The field itself is landlocked and has no direct road access.

This is 2342 m² of sloping agricultural land within the Pera countryside.
