Description
Paralimni Lake is within walking distance of this two-storey house in Sotira, so a morning stroll to the water and its nature can become part of everyday life. Built in 2011 as part of a residential complex, it brings together a family home, its own outdoor space and a shared pool. Living space is set over two floors, giving the household room to spread out by day and settle in by evening. Outside, a covered veranda offers shade for long lunches, while open verandas catch the air on warmer days. The garden is your own patch of green, and a parking space keeps the car close to the door. On summer afternoons the communal swimming pool is there for a cool swim without leaving the complex. Sotira's village life is all around you, and the town of Paralimni is a short drive away for wider errands and evenings out. The house is currently occupied. Here, a walk to the lake, your own green space and a shared pool all come together in one home.
