Description
In Tseri, with restaurants and cafés within walking distance, a large residential field of 4,761 m² offers a generous stretch of ground in the Nicosia district.

The land lies relatively flat across an irregular outline. Two roads run along its edges, giving it direct road access from more than one side. Permission has been granted to divide it into five separate plots, and the residential zone allows building of up to two floors. It is a practical starting point, with substance over show.

Everyday life stays within easy reach. Lakatameia and Latsia are a short drive away, and the motorway is close at hand for getting around. Picture an afternoon coffee in the village, then a walk back to your own piece of land and the plans taking shape on it.

Sizeable, gently level and open to the road on two sides, this is ground with a long horizon, ready for the life you choose to build in Tseri.
