Description
A short drive from the centre of Anglisides, this residential field offers a generous stretch of land within reach of everyday village life in the Larnaca district. At 5,519 m², it leaves plenty of room to imagine a home taking shape, with open space all around it.

The ground is even throughout, which makes it easy to picture the layout of a future house, while the plot itself has an irregular outline. Its residential zoning allows a home of up to two floors, so there is scope for a house with an upper level.

The village centre is a short drive away, and the neighbouring village of Alethriko is just as near. For longer journeys, the Larnaca–Limassol motorway is easily reached, and Larnaca International Airport is a drive away.

A sizeable, level field on the edge of village life, where a new home in Anglisides can begin to take form.
