Description
Palaiometocho sets the scene here: a village with a supermarket and shops within walking distance, and the Nicosia highway within easy reach. In its industrial zone lies a level, rectangular field of 2,967 m², a straightforward base for business use. The even surface and regular outline make the land simple to plan around and easy to picture with a working yard, a building or an operation of your own shaping. A registered road lies a short way off, but the field has no frontage on it today. Under the proposed future road network, a new road would take part of the land and divide it into two parts, each with frontage on that road. Beyond the boundary, main roads and motorway junctions are easy to reach, which keeps the wider Nicosia district close for deliveries, staff and visitors. Cafés, restaurants, petrol stations and public offices are a short drive away, as is neighbouring Agioi Trimithias. Level ground, a regular shape and strong road links nearby give this field a sound footing for a business in Palaiometocho.
