Description
Beaches lie a short drive from this sizeable field in Pano Pyrgos, and the neighbouring village of Kato Pyrgos is close by for shops, cafés and a relaxed meal out. It is a setting where the sea feels like part of everyday life rather than a holiday treat.

The land covers 10,034 m² and divides into two parts. About half sits in a residential zone, with room for a home, while the other half is agricultural and suited to farming. The field fronts a road along one side and a path along another, so it has direct road access.

Picture a home on the residential half, with open farmland stretching out beside it and an afternoon by the water never far away. Mornings could begin with errands in the next village and end with a swim, all within a short drive. For days of exploring further afield, the Gialia Monastery is within a drive.

This is generous land with two distinct uses, a welcoming village setting and the coast within easy reach.
