Description
In the heart of Agioi Omologites, Nicosia, this office places the working day right beside public service offices, with restaurants and cafés next door for a lunch meeting or a coffee between calls.

Inside, an open office area with desks sets an easy, collaborative rhythm, while two conference rooms give a team space for client meetings and more focused discussions. A kitchen and four toilets look after everyone through the day, and three covered verandas offer a sheltered spot to step outside, take a call or simply pause before the next appointment.

The land lies in an area zoned for commercial and residential use, and the setting is a well-connected part of the capital, with Strovolos close by. Errands, meetings and everyday routines all fit naturally around the working hours here.

A professional base with room to meet, work and breathe, set in a Nicosia neighbourhood where so much of what an office needs sits just outside the door.
