Description
In Panagia, on the edge of the capital, this large industrial field sits close to the Aglantzia industrial area and one of the city's main roundabouts, with the motorway within reach. Business already sets the tone in this part of Nicosia, and this field shares that setting.

Across 6,968 m², the ground lies flat, a simple, even surface to plan on from the first sketch. A registered road gives the land direct road access, so vehicles and visitors can arrive with ease. Its industrial zoning points to the natural use here: premises for a business.

Picture a working site taking shape on level ground, with established industry as a neighbour and the wider city road network close at hand. For a company that wants space near the capital, this field offers a straightforward setting.

Flat land, direct road access and a place among Nicosia's working districts make this field worth a closer look.
