High-Yield Development and Strategic Acquisition

The Foundation of Your Future. This prime residential plot in the heart of the prestigious Lykavitos area of Nicosia represents an elite development opportunity in one of the capital's most established urban cores. Falling within the high-density Kα3 planning zone, the property provides an exceptional building density of 140% and a 50% coverage factor, offering the technical capacity for a prominent four-storey residential building with a maximum height of 17 meters. This high-density profile is ideal for a state-of-the-art apartment complex or a luxury multi-unit project in a district that perfectly balances a quiet residential character with immediate proximity to the city's administrative and commercial heart. In March 2026, the central Nicosia real estate market is experiencing a significant value surge following the landmark January 1st tax reform, which fully abolished stamp duty on all new property contracts and removed the Special Defence Contribution on rental income, drastically improving net yields for residential landlords. Furthermore, the 2026 reforms have nearly doubled the Capital Gains Tax exemption for primary residences to 150,000 euro, greatly enhancing the net appeal for both developers and end-users. The plot's superior technical specifications and its placement within a core elite enclave ensure a secure and appreciating investment, a standard of smart investment we have guided for 3 decades of experience.
