Description
Right in the centre of Analiontas, a village community in Nicosia District, this residential plot sits among the daily rhythm of village life. Schools are within walking distance, and the shores of Tamasos Lake are a short drive away for unhurried weekend afternoons by the water.

The land extends to 543 m² and is level and rectangular, a regular and practical shape to plan around. It has direct road access along its front, and the main road linking the village with Lythrodontas is easy to reach for journeys further afield.

Residential zoning gives room for a home of up to two floors. Picture a family house rising on this even ground, with the school run short and simple and the lake close by.

A central position in a Nicosia village, level land and a clear setting for a future home make this plot a grounded place to begin.
