Description
In the Famagusta village of Avgorou, this sizeable residential field opens onto a generous stretch of road frontage, giving it direct road access along a wide edge. At 6,655 m², it offers room for a home, with land to spare around it for a setting shaped entirely by your own plans.

On one side, the field borders public land. Parks and green spaces are within walking distance, so an evening stroll among greenery can become part of the daily rhythm. The village centre is a short drive away, as are restaurants and cafés for a relaxed coffee or a meal out with friends. Schools and supermarkets are a drive away, and the main road towards Ormideia is easy to reach, keeping the wider area well connected.

Picture the first visit: walking the frontage, pacing out where the house might stand and the land unfolding beyond it. The plot has the size, the residential zoning and the village close at hand, and it offers a grounded starting point for a long-term home in Avgorou.
