Description
Village life in Tsada sets the tone here. These two residential fields sit a short drive from the village centre, and the neighbouring village of Koili is just as close. Together they cover 3,271 m² of land zoned for residential use in the Paphos district, with room for a home of your own.

The land has direct road access along one of its boundaries. The surrounding communities are easy to reach, so the wider area is open to you from the moment you arrive.

Picture sketching out the house you want on ground that is yours, then heading into the village for a coffee or the weekly shop. Afterwards you come back to a sizeable stretch of residential land and start thinking about where the rooms will go. It is honest, practical land, with everyday village life close at hand.

A village setting, its own road access and the freedom to shape a home around the way you want to live.
