Description
Two adjacent agricultural fields in Arminou together cover 6,931 m² of farmland in the Paphos countryside. Their agricultural zoning makes them suited to farming or planting, and because they lie side by side, they form one continuous piece of land.

A dirt road runs along one edge of both fields and gives direct road access. The village's main road is close by, and the centre of Arminou is a short drive away. The sale is a 17% share of both fields. This is sizeable, uncomplicated farmland in a rural setting away from dense development.
