Description
Restaurants and cafés lie within walking distance of this five-bedroom house in Panagia Evangelistria, Dali, with the centre of the community close at hand. Set on a sizeable plot, it gives family life room to unfold across two floors.

On the ground floor, the living and sitting area opens onto the kitchen, so cooking and conversation share the same space. A guest toilet, a family bathroom and a laundry room keep daily routines simple. Upstairs, five bedrooms mean everyone can have a room of their own, and the master bedroom has its own en-suite. Covered verandas offer shade for a morning coffee or a long evening meal outdoors, and there is parking for two cars.

Beyond the front door, an evening stroll to a café becomes part of the day, while the heritage site of Idalion is a short drive away for an afternoon among Dali's past.

A comfortable home for every season, rooted in a village where good food and good company are only a walk away.
