Description
In Agios Vasileios, a residential neighbourhood of Strovolos, a large field of 7,167 m² sits on land zoned for homes. The area around it is made up of average to high-end residential developments, which gives the setting a settled, lived-in character on the edge of the city.

The land fronts a public asphalted road, so it has direct road access, and electricity, water and telecommunications can be connected. An active planning permit is in place to divide it into seven plots of varied sizes, and homes of up to two floors may be built here.

That makes this more than an open field. You can picture a small group of homes taking shape, each with its own plot, in a part of Strovolos that people already choose to live in. Schools are a short drive away, and the Nicosia–Limassol motorway is easy to reach, linking the area to the rest of the island.

A sizeable stretch of residential land in Agios Vasileios, with direct road access and a permit for seven plots already in hand.
