Description
Restaurants and cafés sit right beside this building in the Nicosia quarter of Agios Antonios. Step out of the front door and a morning coffee or an unhurried lunch is only a few paces away, part of the everyday rhythm of a well-served city neighbourhood.

The building offers 866 m² of covered space on a compact 202 m² plot, a generous amount of room within the city. Built in 1970, it brings real scale to a setting where space indoors counts for a great deal.

Daily life here is easy on foot. Nicosia Town Hall is within walking distance, as are supermarkets, shops and bus stations, so errands and appointments rarely call for the car. When you do need to drive further afield, the main roads are easy to reach.

A sizeable building in Agios Antonios, with the cafés of the neighbourhood on its doorstep and the life of the capital all around it.
