Description
Village life lies close at hand in Kokkinotrimithia, where this large field sits a short walk from the village high school, with supermarkets and shops also within walking distance. Homes and undeveloped parcels of land share the surroundings, in a residential part of the village.

The land lies in a residential zone, with room for a home of up to two floors. A long stretch of road frontage gives it direct road access. A derelict structure stands along one edge of the field.

Picture the everyday rhythm this setting allows: children heading off to school on foot, a quick walk for groceries, and the familiar pace of a Nicosia village around you. It is a setting where a new home can grow into an established neighbourhood rather than stand apart from it.

A large piece of residential land, with the school and the shops a walk away and the road at its edge, offers a calm starting point for a home of your own in Kokkinotrimithia.
