Description
Among the homes of Panagia Evangelistria in Dali, this large residential field offers room to plan a home of your own on 6,624 m² of land. The wider area blends residential developments with open plots, and schools lie within walking distance, so the daily rhythm of family life can stay close at hand.

The land meets the road along two of its borders, giving it direct road access from more than one side. Its residential zoning allows a home of up to two floors, and electricity, water and telecommunication can be connected to the site.

Picture mornings that begin with a short walk to school and weekends spent exploring the heritage site of Idalion, only a short drive away. The town centre is also within easy reach, bringing everyday errands and an unhurried Mediterranean pace of life within easy reach.

A generous stretch of residential land in a settled corner of Dali, with the space and the setting to shape a home around the way you want to live.
