Description
Restaurants and cafés are within walking distance of this residential plot in Kornos, a Larnaca village where open parcels of land sit among scattered homes. The village centre is a short drive away, and the Limassol–Nicosia motorway is within easy reach, so village life and wider travel both stay close.

The land lies in a residential zone and offers room for a home of up to two floors. Its rectangular shape gives a clear outline to plan around. The ground slopes, so a design that follows the natural fall of the land would suit it well. The plot has direct road access, and electricity, water and telecommunications can be connected.

Picture an evening stroll down to a café, then home again to a house shaped around its own slope. This is a welcoming setting where a home of your own design can grow out of the land and the village around it.
