Description
In Athienou, among village homes and open parcels of land, lies a large field of 4,014 m² on residential land. It offers room for a home of up to two floors, set within the everyday rhythm of a Larnaca village.

The ground is flat and even. Its irregular outline gives the plot a shape of its own. A long frontage onto the street gives direct road access, and water, electricity and telecommunication services can be connected.

The surrounding area mixes residential homes with parcels still undeveloped. The village football stadium is a short way off, a reminder of the community life around you. Picture a family home rising here, with level ground around it to shape as you wish and the village close at hand.

A generous, level piece of Athienou, ready for you to imagine what it could become.
