Description
Just beyond the centre of Choletria, this large field sits among village homes and open parcels of land, in a setting where the pace of life is set by the village rather than the town. It is a place to imagine settling into the Paphos countryside on your own terms.

The land extends to 4,348 m² and lies within a residential zone, with room for a home of up to two floors and plenty of ground around it. The surroundings mix residential houses with undeveloped land, giving the area an open, village feel.

Daily life stays simple. Restaurants and cafés are a short drive away, Choletria's older quarter is close by, and Paphos International Airport is within a drive. The land has no direct road access of its own; it is reached by a registered right of way over neighbouring land.

A sizeable piece of residential land at the edge of a Paphos village, ready for the home you have in mind.
