Description
In Galata, a short walk from the heart of the village, this field of 4,014 m² lies among homes and parcels of land still waiting for their own story. Everyday village life sits close by, and the Troodos National Forest Park, along with neighbouring Kakopetria, is a short drive away.

The land falls within a residential zone, which gives room for a home of up to two floors. With this much ground, there is scope to shape a house to your own plans and to the life you want to build in the village. The land has no direct road access.

Picture a morning stroll down to the village centre and a weekend among the forests of Troodos. It is a setting where village life and green country both feel close to home, and where a home of your own could one day take shape.
