Description
Two adjoining fields in Amargeti, Paphos, together cover 9,031 m² of agricultural land, a short drive from the village centre. They lie among other agricultural and undeveloped parcels, in a countryside setting away from dense building. The neighbouring villages of Pentalia and Faleia are also a short drive away.

The zoning is agricultural, so the land suits farming and planting. The land has no direct road access. Side by side, the two fields form one sizeable, continuous stretch of agricultural ground.
