In March 2026, the Nicosia residential market is showing steady resilience, with apartment demand outpacing supply and house prices stabilizing after a period of adjustment. A landmark tax reform that took effect on January 1, 2026, has fully abolished stamp duty on all new property contracts, simplified administrative procedures, and improved net value for land acquisitions. Furthermore, the 2026 market is supported by the government's 6th Edition of the Housing Revitalization Scheme, which launched on March 2, 2026, offering combined grants of up to 100,000 euro for eligible primary residences when coupled with energy upgrade incentives.
