Description

For Sale Residential Plot In Evrychou, Nicosia
Strategic Residential Land Asset in Evrychou

Experience an exceptional and high-potential real estate opportunity with this premium residential field, strategically located in the picturesque, traditional, and beautifully connected community of Evrychou, Nicosia. This property represents a versatile, high-value, and remarkably functional asset for building an autonomous countryside retreat, a private villa complex, or holding for long-term strategic value. Arriving with a generous total area of 2,166 square meters, the plot offers an extensive footprint that grants excellent architectural flexibility and efficient layout planning. Designed for forward-thinking investors, private developers, or individuals seeking a peaceful sanctuary in the scenic Solea Valley without losing touch with core regional infrastructure, this property sits as a prime canvas. Notably, the asset enjoys direct access onto an officially registered public road, ensuring immediate legal development pathways and straightforward construction logistics.

Development Potential & Enhanced Planning Features

The property features a robust and highly efficient development footprint spanning 2,166 square meters, meticulously structured to support ambitious countryside residential concepts. Falling within a highly favorable local Residential Planning Zone, the land is optimized with an impressive 60% building density factor and an expanded 35% building coverage factor. According to its official zoning metrics, developers can maximize the land's substantial footprint by constructing prominent residential homes or holiday villas spanning up to 2 storeys with a maximum building height allowance of 8.3 meters.

The plot is fully integrated near local utility networks, with its direct road frontage providing immediate access for vehicles and equipment. This premium access configuration ensures a highly practical development environment, making it a secure, high-yield choice in one of the valley's most established and administrative regional hubs.
