This property represents a versatile, high-value, and remarkably functional asset for building an autonomous suburban estate, a private multi-villa complex, or holding for long-term strategic capital growth. Arriving with a generous total area of 2,518 square meters, the plot offers an extensive footprint that grants excellent architectural flexibility and efficient layout planning. Designed for forward-thinking investors, private contractors, or individuals seeking a tranquil suburban sanctuary with rapid capital appreciation potential, this property sits as an attractive canvas. Currently landlocked, this asset offers a lucrative entry price point with substantial value expansion upon future right-of-way integration or local road network expansions.

Exceptional Development Potential & High-Yield Planning Features

The property features an outstanding development footprint spanning 2,518 square meters, meticulously structured to support high-density residential concepts while complying with contemporary urban standards. Falling within a highly favorable residential planning zone, the land is optimized with an intensive 90% building density factor and a balanced 50% building coverage factor. According to its official zoning metrics, developers can maximize the land's substantial footprint by constructing prominent residential homes or holiday villas spanning up to 2 storeys with a maximum building height allowance of 8.3 meters, providing an ideal layout for panoramic countryside views once all building uses and conditions are met.

As is standard with high-potential landlocked assets, its current undivided and non-access status means that final development activation will depend on securing an official right-of-way easement or coordinating with future municipal road integrations—a transition that typically unlocks immediate, massive capital appreciation for the owner.
