For Sale Residential Plot In Geri, Nicosia

High-Scale Residential Investment & Land Banking Opportunity

Unlock an exceptional real estate acquisition with this expansive residential plot for sale in the rapidly developing and highly sought-after suburb of Geri, Nicosia. Spanning a massive total footprint of 12,096 sq.m., this substantial land asset represents a rare, large-scale procurement window for forward-thinking property developers, construction companies, or smart long-term land banking investors. Positioned within a primary residential zone, this property is perfectly configured for the future master-planning of a premium synchronized villa complex, an organized division into multiple standard residential building plots, or high-yield low-rise housing projects.

Favorable Residential Planning Parameters

The property boasts stable and clear planning characteristics under its primary municipal zoning framework, offering excellent development potential once formal infrastructure pathways are finalized:

Total Land Area: 12,096 sq.m. — Providing a vast, continuous surface to accommodate massive suburban residential designs.

Building Density (Building Destiny): 60% — A highly favorable allowance that yields substantial gross buildable internal square footage, allowing developers to construct multiple spacious family residences across the land asset.

Coverage Factor: 35% — Striking an ideal structural balance that permits large, flexible building footprints while guaranteeing 65% of the property remains dedicated to private gardens, swimming pools, verandas, and green open spaces.

Structural Allowance: Permits buildings up to 2 Storeys Max with an official structural height threshold of 10 meters.

Share Allocation: 1/2 share configuration, opening a strategic operational tier for joint development options.

Access Optimization Profile

Current Status: The property is currently landlocked, which presents an ideal entry-level acquisition window to purchase a premium residential asset well below standard market rates for plots with direct road frontage.

Development Pathway: The land currently requires a registered road network to connect directly to its boundaries. Under Cyprus property law, a landlocked parcel maintains the statutory legal right to request, acquire, and secure a registered right-of-way or public access road through adjacent plots to unlock its full development pathways.
