Description
In the village of Kalo Chorio, in Larnaca district, a large residential field of 6,723 m² gives you the space to imagine the home you have been planning. This is generous ground in a village setting, with everyday life close at hand.

The land is flat, with an irregular outline. A long frontage along the street gives it direct road access, so the plot opens onto the road rather than hiding behind other land. Its residential zoning points to its natural use: room for a home, with plenty of ground around it to shape as you wish.

The village centre is a short drive away for coffee, errands and the rhythm of local life. Rizoelias National Forest Park is also a short drive away, a green escape for unhurried afternoons outdoors. It is a setting where village living and open space sit comfortably side by side.

Flat ground, a long road frontage and village life within easy reach make this a fine place for a new home in Kalo Chorio.
