Description
Palaichori Morfou is a village where life keeps an unhurried rhythm, and this residential field gives you a place of your own within it, with open views across the surrounding countryside. It is a setting shaped by the landscape rather than by dense building, and it has a quiet, honest village character.

The land covers 5,352 m² of sloping ground in an irregular shape. Its residential zoning offers room for a home, where the slope and the views could guide how a house sits on the land and how it opens to the outlook. A dirt track crosses the field and divides it into two parts.

Everyday life stays close. The village centre, with its cafés and restaurants, is a short drive away, as are schools and medical care. The neighbouring village of Askas is also within easy reach, so the wider community is never far.

Picture mornings with the view stretching away from your own ground, a village a short drive down the road, and the time to plan a home around the shape of the land. It is a sizeable plot in authentic village surroundings, where the outlook comes first.
