Description
Set in the countryside of Koilineia, in Paphos District, two adjacent fields combine into a single holding of 10,035 m². The villages of Galataria and Agios Ioannis are a short drive away. The land is irregular in shape, with an uneven surface.

Part of it lies in an agricultural zone suited to farming, and part falls within a protection zone. The land has no direct road access. A stream runs along one of its boundaries, giving the two fields a natural edge.
