Description
Village life in Astromeritis comes with real space here: a generous residential field of 6,689 m² on the edge of a community known for its strong local identity. Schools, supermarkets, shops, cafés and public offices are all within walking distance, so everyday errands stay simple and close.

The land has a regular shape and a smooth, even surface, an uncomplicated canvas for anyone picturing a family home on residential land. The surroundings are lightly built, with a scattering of individual houses, giving a relaxed rural setting rather than dense development.

Beyond the village, Peristerona and Potami are a short drive away, as are petrol stations, while bus stations are a little further. It is a setting that offers authentic Cypriot village life without feeling cut off from the services a household relies on.

Above all, this is open, well-proportioned land in a welcoming village, with space enough to shape a home around the way you want to live.
