Description
Village life in Ormideia sets the scene for this two-storey family house. Supermarkets, cafés and the village centre are a short drive away, and so is neighbouring Xylotymbou, so the errands of an ordinary day stay simple.

The layout keeps day and night apart. On the ground floor, the living room and kitchen share the everyday rhythm of the house, from breakfast to the evening meal. Upstairs, three bedrooms and a bathroom sit away from the bustle below, so the end of the day can wind down in peace. Air conditioning keeps the rooms comfortable through the warmer months.

Outside, a yard gives you space to step out with a morning coffee or enjoy the evening air, and a small covered veranda offers a sheltered spot to sit. Built in 2005, the house brings together a practical family layout and a place of its own in the open air.

A comfortable village home in Ormideia, with room to live together and space outdoors to enjoy it.
