For Sale : € 190,000

Description
Everyday convenience is never far from this residential field for sale in Geri, Cyprus. The town centre is a short drive away, as are schools, supermarkets and shops, cafés and restaurants, a medical centre and a park for weekend walks. Main roads are close at hand, and motorway junctions are a little further for easy trips across the island.

The land offers a generous sense of space. Its irregular outline and sloping surface give it natural character rather than a flat, uniform feel. It also has direct road access, a practical starting point for any plans.

With residential zoning, the field suits a family home in a municipality that keeps daily life simple, with essential services all within easy reach. Picture a home with room around it, close to everything the week demands yet with space to breathe.

This sale is for a three-eighths share of the field.

Space, direct road access and the comforts of town nearby make for a versatile setting for a future home.
