Description
Quiet surroundings, open space and schools within walking distance make this residential field in Panagia Evangelistria, Dali, an appealing place to picture a future family home. The neighbourhood is calm and only lightly built up, so the sense of space comes naturally, while everyday life stays close at hand.

The land itself is smooth and flat, an uncomplicated canvas set within a residential zone. Its irregular outline gives it a little individuality, and the portion offered is the open central part of the field.

Dali has a friendly, established feel. Restaurants, cafés, the town centre and a petrol station are all a short drive away, and the ancient site of Idalion lies close by for weekend wanders through the area's long history. The wider area is well connected to neighbouring communities and to central Nicosia, which keeps the capital within easy reach of village life.

This sale is for a one-third share of the field. Flat, quiet residential land within walking distance of local schools, in a town with real character, is a setting where a home could settle in comfortably.
