For Sale : € 2,600

Description
The Troodos National Forest Park lies right next to this residential field in Amiantos, giving it a landscape-led setting well away from dense urban development. This is a corner of Cyprus where mountain village character and a closer connection to nature still shape everyday life.

The land is zoned for residential use, so a home in the hills is its natural purpose. It has an irregular shape and an uneven surface, and it benefits from direct road access. The village centre, with its cafés and restaurants, is a short drive away. So are schools, supermarkets, medical centres, pharmacies and petrol stations, which keeps daily life practical. Neighbouring villages such as Pelendri are close at hand for a wider sense of community.

Life here moves at a slower pace, shaped by the traditional charm of the surrounding villages and the open landscape beyond. This sale is for a one-fifth share of the field.

With the forest park on its doorstep and authentic village life all around, this is an honest piece of Amiantos countryside with real appeal.
