Description
Pissouri's beaches are a short drive from this residential field on the eastern side of the village, a short walk from a village church. Holiday homes stand a short distance away, so the land sits among the homes and village life of one of Limassol's best-loved coastal villages.

The field covers 6,689 m² of vacant ground in a roughly rectangular shape, with a surface that slopes across its length. A pathway runs along one of its boundaries. Its residential zoning offers room for a home, set on a sizeable piece of land of its own.

Picture the days that could follow: the village centre with its cafés and shops a short drive away, and the beaches close enough for an afternoon by the sea. Paphos International Airport is about 20 km away for trips abroad and visits from family.

A large plot of residential land in Pissouri, a short walk from the village church and a short drive from its beaches, is a fine place to start shaping a home.
