Description
Village life in Kalo Chorio sets the tone for this residential field in the Limassol district. Here you can picture a home of your own taking shape within the community around it.

The land covers 384 m² and has a triangular shape with a sloping surface, so any design will need to work with its form and gradient. It runs along a public road on one edge, which gives it direct road access. Its residential zoning offers room for a home.

Daily routines stay close at hand. Schools are within walking distance, and the village centre is a short drive away, so errands and school runs can fit easily into the day.

This is a compact piece of residential land with its own road frontage, set in a village where a settled home life can take root.
