Description
Panoramic views over the sea are the heart of this touristic field in Pissouri, a village in the Limassol district where the beaches lie a short drive away. Picture standing on this land with the coastline stretched out before you, the light shifting across the water through the day.

The field covers 7,359 m² of almost rectangular land with an uneven, sloping surface. It sits in a touristic zone, and its size suits the development of a tourist complex, a use that fits this coastal setting.

Paphos International Airport is about 20 km away, keeping the wider world within reach of the village. The field has no direct road access.

With its sea views, its sizeable area and its touristic zoning, this is a piece of Pissouri with the Mediterranean as its outlook.
