Description
Picture a family home set at the end of a cul-de-sac, with public green space running along one side. This residential plot in Anageia, Cyprus, offers exactly that kind of setting, close to Nicosia yet rooted in authentic village surroundings with a strong local identity.

The land covers a generous 1,115 m², with a regular shape and an even surface, a sensible starting point for building your home to your own specification. Its corner position and direct road access make arriving and planning straightforward. The residential zoning points to a private home, whether your taste runs to contemporary lines or traditional design.

Daily life is easy here. Schools, parks and public service offices are within walking distance. Supermarkets, cafés, restaurants and the main roads are a short drive away, and motorway junctions are within easy reach for the journey into the capital.

A calm corner, open green space beside you and room to shape the house you have in mind: the groundwork for a long-term family home in Anageia.
