Description
A field on the market in Peristerona, Cyprus, set in open countryside outside the village in the Nicosia district. The land covers 3345 m² and is agricultural land, suited to farming or planting.

The field has a regular shape and a smooth surface, which makes it straightforward to work and lay out. It is landlocked, with no direct road access. The village centre of Peristerona, petrol stations and the neighbouring villages of Orounta and Potami are a short drive away, and the main motorway network is within a drive.

This is a well-proportioned, level piece of agricultural land in a rural setting away from dense urban development.
