Description
In Kaimakli, everyday life is close at hand. Cafés and restaurants sit right beside the house, and schools are within an easy walk, so the daily rhythm of errands, school runs and evenings out stays pleasantly local.

Built around 1970, this detached home keeps its living space on the upper floor. A welcoming hall leads to a living room, a kitchen with a small dining area for shared meals, three bedrooms and a bathroom. Air conditioning keeps the rooms comfortable through the warmer months. Beneath it, a sizeable ground-floor storage room offers space for everything a household gathers over the years.

Outside, covered and uncovered verandas let you choose between shade and open sky. A small garden adds a touch of green, and a covered parking space keeps the car sheltered. The house stands on a regular plot with direct road access, and it is vacant.

A detached home with outdoor space of its own, in a neighbourhood where the essentials of daily life are only a short walk away.
