Description
On the edge of Geri, with neighbouring Latsia close by, this field of 1,227 m² sits where village life and the everyday business of the Nicosia suburbs meet. The town centre is a short drive away, and the main roads of the area are easy to reach. The land is regular in shape and fronts a road, so it has direct road access, an uncomplicated start for any plan. Its zoning gives it two sides. About half lies in a residential zone, with room for a home of up to two floors. The other half is commercial, where a building for business use of up to three floors may rise. That balance opens real choices: a family home on one part, premises for a business on the other, or a single plan that draws on both in a well-connected setting. It is a sizeable, road-fronting piece of land close to Latsia, with the freedom of two uses. Well worth a visit.
