Description
In the village of Kelokedara, in the Paphos district, this residential field brings together 5,686 m² of land and the chance to shape a home entirely your own. With a residential zoning, there is room for a home, and the plans can begin from the very first sketch, built around the way you want to live.

Life here centres on the village. Its centre is a short drive away, with restaurants and cafés also a short drive from the land for an easy evening meal or a morning coffee. For days out, the Sanctuary of the Paphian Aphrodite lies a drive away, a reminder of how deeply rooted this corner of Paphos is in history.

The land has no direct road access.

A generous piece of Kelokedara, with village life close by and space for the home you have in mind.
