Description
Among the high-end homes of Agios Georgios in Latsia, this level field sits in a settled residential neighbourhood, with schools within walking distance and Lemon Park a short walk away. Neighbouring Strovolos is close by, so the wider life of the capital's suburbs is never far.

The land is rectangular with a smooth, flat surface, an easy shape to picture a home on. It lies in a residential zone, which allows a home of up to two floors. Electricity, water and telecommunications can potentially be connected. Access is currently by a temporary road.

Around the field, upscale residential developments share the streets with open parcels of land, giving the area a calm, unhurried feel. Imagine mornings that begin with a stroll to the park and school runs made on foot, with everyday life close at hand.

The sale is for a 50% share of the field. A level piece of Latsia, set among fine homes and close to green space, it is well worth a closer look.
