Description
In Alaminos, in the Larnaca district, this field offers a place to put down roots, with the local schools within walking distance. It is zoned for residential use, so there is room for a home of your own in a residential setting.

Picture mornings that begin with a short walk to school, and quiet evenings spent sketching the house you might one day build here. When travel calls, Larnaca International Airport is about 15 km away, which keeps trips abroad and visits from friends and family simple to arrange.

Residential land within walking distance of schools, with room to create a home shaped around the way you want to live.
