Description
Geri, in the Nicosia district, is the setting for this residential field, a place to begin planning a home of your own with the comforts of the wider area close at hand.

The land lies in a residential zone, so its plain general use is a home. There is room to shape a house around the way you want to live, from the first sketch to the final layout, with a Mediterranean pace of life as the backdrop.

Neighbouring Latsia is a short drive away, and so is the town centre, which keeps everyday errands, schooling and an evening out within easy reach while home stays here in Geri.

A residential field in Geri, with the space to turn a plan into a home.
