Description
A short way from the heart of Kelokedara, this large field of 9,220 m² sits among homes and open parcels of land in the Paphos district. The surroundings already have a settled residential character, and village life is never far from the gate.

The land lies in a residential zone, so there is room here for a home of up to two floors, with plenty of ground around it to shape as you wish. A long frontage on a registered road runs along one side, giving the field direct road access. Arriving, building and coming home all start from that open edge.

The centre of Kelokedara is close by for everyday errands and a coffee in the square, while Paphos International Airport is about 15 km away for trips further afield. The Sanctuary of Aphrodite, one of the area's best-known heritage sites, is within a drive for slow weekend outings.

It is a sizeable stretch of residential land close to the centre of a Paphos village, where a new home could take shape among its neighbours. Well worth seeing in person.
