Description
Just beyond the village of Odou, this four-bedroom home sits among open, undeveloped land and a few scattered houses. Its setting is shaped by the countryside rather than by dense building, and the village itself is close by.

Inside, 170 m² of living space opens from an entrance hall into a kitchen, a living room and a dining room of its own. That gives room for long family meals and relaxed evenings in separate spaces. Four bedrooms share a bathroom, so everyone has a room to call their own, and a guest toilet serves visitors. Built in 1989, the house stands on a plot of 790 m², with room to breathe all around it.

Daily life stays easy. A school, cafés and restaurants are a short drive away, and the green slopes of Kionia peak are within a drive for days spent outdoors.

This is a roomy, adaptable family house on the edge of Odou, with space inside and open land around it.
