Description
Anarita's village centre lies a short drive from this residential field, in a setting where open, undeveloped parcels sit beside several residential developments. Life here keeps the friendly scale of a Paphos village, with the centre close at hand for an unhurried coffee or the daily errands.

At 2,676 m², the land is sizeable, and its residential zoning gives it a clear purpose: room for a home of up to two floors. Picture a house shaped to your own plans and set on generous ground, with village life nearby and Paphos International Airport a short drive away when it is time to travel. Beaches are a drive away for slow summer afternoons by the sea.

The land has no direct road access.

A sizeable residential field in Anarita, with the village close by and the freedom to imagine a home of your own on it.
