Description
Pissouri's village centre, with its cafés and restaurants, is only a short drive from this residential plot, and Columbia Beach Resort lies within easy driving distance too. It is a setting where everyday village life and time by the sea can sit comfortably side by side.

The land fronts a road, so it has direct road access, and it is served by water, electricity and telecommunications. The neighbourhood around it is a mix of residential developments and parcels of land not yet built on.

The residential zoning allows a home of up to two floors, so you can shape a family house from the very first sketch. You decide how the rooms are arranged, where the living spaces open up and how each day might unfold once the walls are standing. With 806 m² to work with, there is room to plan a home around the way you want to live.

Room to build, the village close at hand and the coast within reach: a corner of Pissouri waiting to become home.
